

Local professional helps clients

RIDGEWOOD – Aloysius “Al” Donohue of RE/MAX Properties wanted to thank his loyal clients and also help them make some new friends in their new town and thought bringing these newcomers together for dinner would be a great way to accomplish both goals.

Donohue works with many clients that relocate to Ridgewood from across the country, and from abroad, and he knows they all have at least 2 things in common – 1) They need to eat and 2) they love their new town but they don’t know many people yet. So he decided to plan a dinner at Ridgewood’s LaPiazza Restaurant on Chestnut Street to make some introductions and have some fun.

“I have been fortunate enough to work with clients that are such nice folks that the majority of them have become good friends. So the dinner turned out to be less of business dinner and more like 26 old friends sharing a night out” said Donohue.

Donohue’s clients seem to share the sentiment, “We had a great time and it was so nice to chat with another couple who had recently moved from the UK to Ridgewood - just as we did. We had so much in common”, said Tom O’Connor of Ridgewood.

“This is the 2nd Donohue Group Client Appreciation Event we have attended and these people are starting to feel like old friends. It’s really great how Al has continued to help us long after the purchase of our home was completed. He actually works hard at introducing us to new friends and trying to make our first few months in Ridgewood as comfortable as possible”, said Bill Horne of Ridgewood.
